FORTY LEAVE ST. VINCENT'S

Individuals, as Well as Organized Committees, Give Much-Needed Personal Aid.

Individuals, as well as organized committees, saw work before them and did it. Mrs. George F. Stott, who lives at the Hotel Chelsea, was energetic in behalf of a destitute couple from the second cabin of the Titanic who wandered into that hotel on the evening the Carpathia came to port. They are Edward Beane of Rochester and his bride from Norwich, England, not the only bridal couple that sailed on the biggest ship afloat, but probably the only newly wedded ones who were not separated for all time by the disaster. All that they had in the world went down with the ship, and they had saved six years for the wedding, which took place in Norwich a month ago.

Beane is a bricklayer, and Ethel, his wife, was maid in a Norwich household. Between them they had stored away $500, and sixty-five wedding presents were lost with the money. Beane stood back at the cry of, "No, only women!" when his bride was placed in one of the lifeboats. But as he stood back manfully he saw that boat pull off and it was only half filled. And he jumped into the sea and swam for that boat, and Ethel Beane's arms pulled him in.

Mrs. Stott paid their fare to Rochester and sent to the Women's Relief Committee for clothing. In a moment a box was being packed. Meanwhile Mrs. Stott took Beane to the White Star offices.

"The man we saw there wanted him to take $20 and go on, but I wouldn't hear of it," Mrs. Stott said, when questioned about her experiences later. "He said that Mr. Beane seemed pretty well fixed and wanted to know who I was anyway. He said these benevolent societies had been giving the line a lot of bother, but I stuck to my point, and we are going to file a claim."

The purser's receipt for $200 of Beane's money, she said, was lost with the ship.
