The minority is just as quick to get upset as the majority is. But their story, coming late in the game, will do little to change the minds of the people. They have been given their chance to stick their necks out and have been too cautious to do so. They were only 20 years younger than the majority and they should have been allowed to go out and get something for themselves. The minority has something to give in exchange for our share. The poor soul at the side of the road is the one who is the strongest. He is in better condition than the rich man who has something to give in exchange. A man should be willing to give something to those who need it.

Black and white workers, many of whom had been shipped north in response to the demands of the war, had been in camps for a year and a half. The conditions in these camps, as reported by the correspondent of the New York Times, were described as follows: "Here are thousands of Negroes and white men, all living in shacks and working in factories. They are being paid less than white men, and they are working longer hours. The food is bad, and the housing is poor. The conditions are terrible."

Mrs. Gregory is survived by her husband, Jackson Strother, a son, Charles Warden, both of Rochester, a step-father, Paul Gregory, a step-daughter, Laura Strother, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Monard. Mrs. Gregory was a member of the choir of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church and active in the affairs of the church. She was a native of Wayne County, Ohio, and a graduate of Antioch College.

The family has our sympathy and our sincere congratulations and best wishes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Editor:

A month ago when I wrote you about the increased prices of coal and the further difficulties of those in our class, I did not at that time see such a state of affairs as you have described, and I cannot agree with your report.

I cannot agree with your report.

The situation today is far worse than I anticipated. The price of coal is now at an all-time low, and it cannot be obtained in sufficient quantities. The situation is critical, and we need your assistance in seeking a solution.

Yours truly,

PLAIN TALK — By Dan Gardner

This letter is a colunn in the Minneapolis Spokesman, in Minneapolis, Minnesota. He says: "Dear Dan! For the last few months I have been reading and carefully scrutinizing your articles appearing in the Spokesman. These articles reflect profound scientific program for Negro emancipation along all lines of social justice, and they are always deeply impressed by bread alone it must be remembered that BREAD is the staff of life, and he who is able to provide it, we shall have to seek new and better channels for Negroes is basically the same without strangling the economy, there is one thing which they were producing two and which we hope to be continued. Dr. Warren Banner, of Opportunity Magazine, says of the book: "From personal letters, private papers, official documents and other source materials, the author has culled much valuable material. All evidence indicates that considerable time has been devoted to presenting facts on Negro life in the "Land of the Genesee" which historians generally overlook. In no other way would we learn of the contributions to this great nation were it not for the untiring efforts of men like the author of this work."
