CINCINNATI, Ohio—The annual conference of the NAACP will open here on Wednesday, June 26th, with an array of stellar speakers. More than 7000 delegates are expected to participate, representing branches in 35 states. The sessions will be held in Emery Hall.

Among the prominent speakers will be Walter P. Reuther, international president of the UAW-CIO; Charles Bowles, stabilization director; Robert L. Johnson, executive vice-president of the board of the UAW-CIO; William S. Burghardt, editor of the Chicago Defender and former president of the NAACP; Virginia state governor; Charles Warren, mayor of Cincinnati; and Robert F. Novak, editor of the Chicago Tribune.

The conference is expected to last for four days, with sessions starting at 9:00 a.m. and continuing through the afternoon. There will be a session on Friday morning to discuss the NAACP's plans for the coming year.

The NAACP officials believe that this conference will be the most important in the organization's history. They expect it to be a turning point in the struggle for civil rights and equality for all Americans. The conference will also feature a number of special events, such as a concert and a panel discussion on the future of the civil rights movement.

The conference will be attended by a large number of delegates, with many coming from outside the state of Ohio. The NAACP has invited representatives from other organizations, including the United Farm Workers, the NAACP, and the National Council of Negro Women, to participate in the conference.

The NAACP officials hope that this conference will be a celebration of the progress that has been made in the struggle for civil rights. They are optimistic that the conference will help to inspire new ideas and new strategies to continue the fight for equality.

The NAACP has also announced that it will be launching a new campaign to encourage young people to become involved in the civil rights movement. The campaign will be called the "Generation NEXT" campaign and will be aimed at students and young adults.

Scarcity Makes Race Problem in Housing, Reuther Tells Tribune

ULYSSES W. BOYKIN

"As long as we must divide up scarcity, Democracy cannot solve the housing problem," said the newly elected international president of the UAW-CIO.

"It is the same old story," he added. "Scarcity makes the haves fight the have-nots, in long as there are a few people have more money than they need for housing, land, and resources, and some people have not enough money to buy the reins and resources they need and the battle is on.

"We are trying to suggest a remedy for this situation. There have been those who are going to tell us that race discrimination is the reason the UAW-CIO is going to fight, but we are going to fight for the right of every American to have a home, and we can get the message of equality through the labor movement.

"The UAW-CIO has fought vigorously against its Southern Negro members, and we will never compromise our fight against racism.

"The UAW-CIO has fought vigorously against its Southern Negro members, and we will never compromise our fight against racism.

"If you solve the problem of race discrimination, then the problem of housing will be solved, and we will get the message of equality through the labor movement.

CRAMTONS' CORNER
By LOUIS CRAMTON

IN THE LAST TWO WEEKS we have seen on more than four safety video and different shows, all of them held in various locations, thus demonstrating the magnitude of the exhibition. This has been the case because of the publicity given to the shows, which has been tremendous. The newspapers, radio, and television have all been instrumental in spreading the word. The shows have been well attended, and the public has been enthusiastic in their response. The shows have been well attended, and the public has been enthusiastic in their response.

A man who was interviewed recently said that when he was introduced to the show, he was skeptical, but after seeing it, he was convinced of its value. He said, "I never thought I would enjoy a show like this, but I am now a convert." The shows have been well received by all who have attended, and the enthusiasm has been contagious. The shows have been a tremendous success, and the public has been eager to see them. The shows have been well attended, and the public has been enthusiastic in their response.

The Parsons Conference

The need of international organizations with the objective of fighting poverty, war, and disease is evident.
The Parsons Conference is held on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania.
The Conference aims to establish a world organization that would coordinate efforts to address the world's problems in a more effective and efficient manner.
