The committee's aim program, said Gifford, was to get everyone to listen to what people want unless members talked to hundreds of parents of school children.

"The parents flocked in. 'What do you mean I missed lunch because they don't feed me,'" said Gifford. "But the children are in control of the school board. As long as 'two-gun' Cerulli (school board president) and his posse are in control of the Board of Education, the majority of black children in Rochester are going to be educated in ghettos and neighborhoods that are not up to the standard of white neighborhoods."

One member of an inner city school PTA told how black parents were not allowed to participate in the planning of a hot lunch program, said Gifford. "It's an example of what's going on in the city, the schools being run, controlled, financed by the majority race in the city."

"The parents flocked in. 'What do you mean I don't eat? My kids don't eat.' They said the children were missing lunch because the parents were working," said Gifford. "The education committee's involvement in the school board exceeds far beyond the lack of a lunch program. This is the reason these people are going to be educated in ghettos."
Maybe It's Happening

The caretaker of this corner of your Labor News is a white, northern New Yorker, named Black Gregory, and Rap Brown and most of the militant black who say they speak for the Negro have never heard of Black Gregory or this caretaker. He is exactly the caretaker of this corner, and all these Negroes are only his property. They are too young, and right now he would have never heard of you! They are right Negroes, nothing more. And—listen again, please—with this very important point in mind: For the Negro American prior to 1954, Carmichael, Sign, Token, feel justified in opposing the sale of a nearby house to a white. If he comes from the north, he is even worse, because the Negro has been in the South so long that he is less than that for the Negro cause!

The Supreme Court decision in 1954 was a victory for the Negroes. In the months that followed, they were able to achieve equality. Without this platform, Carmichael and preaching during the long decades before the Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall overturned the 1954 and 1964 civil rights laws were no more than a dream. The long decades that followed the Supreme Court decision saw the rise of the civil rights movement, and eventually, the achievement of equality for African Americans in the United States.

The Negroes were able to achieve equality because of the long decades of struggle that preceded the Supreme Court decision. The civil rights movement of the 1950s and 1960s was not just a reaction to segregation and discrimination, but a conscious and deliberate effort to eradicate them. The movement was fueled by a sense of injustice and a desire for equality, and it was sustained by a commitment to nonviolence and a willingness to endure hardship and suffering.

The civil rights movement was a massive undertaking, involving thousands of people from all walks of life. It was a movement that brought together people from across the country, and it was a movement that involved a wide range of tactics and strategies. The movement was not just about protesting segregation in schools and in the workplace, but it was also about changing the hearts and minds of the white people who were oppressing them.

The civil rights movement was not just about the present, but it was also about the future. The movement was about creating a world where all people would be treated with dignity and respect, where all people would have the same opportunities, and where all people would have the same rights. The movement was about creating a world where the past was not a barrier to the future, but a stepping stone.

The civil rights movement was a movement that was sustained by a sense of purpose and a sense of community. It was a movement that was sustained by a sense of hope and a sense of possibility. It was a movement that was sustained by a sense of sacrifice and a sense of determination.

The civil rights movement was a movement that was not just about the Negroes, but it was about all people. It was a movement that was about the future of America, and it was a movement that was about the future of the world.

STATEMENT BY

LOFTUS CARSON

I have been a citizen of Monroe County for 20 years.

In this time, I have seen several attempts to organize effective political action at the local level. These efforts have not been particularly successful, and I believe that this is due to the lack of enthusiasm and support from the general public.

I am writing to urge you to become involved in the political process. By participating in local elections and issues, we can help to ensure that our community is represented by people who share our values and priorities.

I believe that it is important for everyone to have a voice in the democratic process. By voting and engaging in political discussions, we can help to shape the direction of our community and make sure that it is a place where everyone feels welcome.

Thank you for considering my words. I urge you to take an active role in our community's future.

Sincerely,

Loftus Carson

The House That Jack Rebuilt

The City of Rochester has decided to buy (60%) of the owner not wanting to sell) the row of houses on the corner of George Street and Forsythe Avenue.

The Leeds Realty Company made a general survey of all the houses in the entire Third Ward. The building row was one of the properties they decided on for its suitability because of its architectural value.

The question arises, "Can the City of Rochester improve the houses?" Must all the beauty and commercial value of the buildings be destroyed? Must Rochester be made so large that it is today, forever and everywhere different from its birthplace, the place where it started? There is much talk today of progress, and the closing up of city slums. This is not a new subject, we have been talking about it for many years, and especially around election time. The time has come when we must face facts: "The slums belong to the slums people." Who live in this city's most neglected districts, where price range of homes starts at forty dollars a week. These people for this reason think it wise to have the buildings restored, or, at least, be made a part of the city. The slums people would have to be made a part of the city's progress.

Mr. William Knight, in the year of 1880, built this row of houses, which are now known as Victorian Row. These were the first of this particular type of row houses in the entire Third Ward. It is the shining example for all home owners in the neighborhood. It is a symbol for any slum area to copy, and if they can capture the spirit of Victorian Row, unknowing at the time of all her hidden violations, she was the first of this particular type of row houses. These violations were not hidden long, the City of Rochester made no bones about it. They made it clear they were not going to be taken care of right away, in spite of nothing being done in the past ten years. Jackson Washington was given only a few days to clean them all up.

Mr. Jackson Washington, who was throughout the neighborhood, was the one who was going to do the job. He started by pulling out the seven coal furnaces, and replacing them with gas furnaces and furnishing new hot rooms. New hot water heaters were put in. He also started by building a forty room, replacing walls, ceilings and floors, where he not only replaced the walls, but new Irving and London were put in. The windows were put in, on the front and back. New fire escapes, for each of the buildings, were put in. Many curb cracks of trash were carried away to the dump, and many piles of fill dirt were hauled and used to fill in the holes in the back yard.

The result was, many violations began to disappear; many thousands of dollars later.

Mr. Jackson Washington was not a thing that happened over night. In November of 1965 Jackson Washington became ill. He never had the chance to complete his job of giving Victorian all of her beauty back because he didn't live quite long enough.

Now days we hear so many people, politicians, ministers, and even schoolteachers, telling us what the trouble is, and how it can be cured, but we let us face it, it is only giving out words, suggestions, and in most cases, just idle talk.

Jackson Washington had no time for idle talk, he had work to do. He simply rolled up his sleeves and went to work, and he got results.

Victorian Row is in the hands of the city, the people are going to have to do the work. The work that it needs to have done.

The City of Rochester is deeply indebted to men like Jackson Washington, and of course to the many other people who have been doing such work over the years. It is the City's responsibility to do what the people are working on. It is the obligation of the people to see that the work is done.

Jackson Washington was given only a few days to clear them all up. Bones about getting them taken care of right away, in spite of nothing being done in the past ten years. Jackson Washington was given only a few days to clean them all up.

Mr. Jackson Washington died in the Baptist Veterans' Hospital in the fall of 1966. He never had the chance to complete his job of giving Victorian all of her beauty back because he didn't live quite long enough.

Another Expansion!

Hannas' is bursting at the seams again with outstanding climbers. The New York State Liquor Authority has approved another plan for expansion for Hannas'. At present, they have five times the original size, and even then it isn't spacious enough for all those added wines and liquors which give you more than your fill at any other store in upstate New York.

Ask any customer who has visited Hannas' in recent times how much more he or she can see, or seen a larger selection in the United States after Hannas'. Hannas' is the store to find anyone who has found a larger selection.

With the approaching holidays, why not come and see Hannas' - it's one of a kind store which is always filled with variety and fine in value. YOU'll be glad that you did.
