How much more can a good beer be?

Say Genesee...and see!
I saw a painting recently entitled "Revolution." It was done by someone very dear to me. As I stood before it, I was struck by its simplicity, yet its deep meaning. The painting consists of two colors: grey and red. The grey represents Black and white trying to mix; whose blood is it? Ours or theirs? The red is blood. It is a backdrop of grey with a red streak running through it, symbolizing the struggle for equality.

"Why did you choose grey and red?" I asked. "The grey represents Black and white trying to mix; whose blood is it? Ours or theirs? The red is blood," he replied. "Why did you choose these colors?" I asked again. "Because black is very strong." This was once white to which some black was added. And, as I said, black is very strong. Where does black get its strength? Cactus blooms in the searing, waterless heat of the desert; the Rock of Gibraltar has withstood centuries of Nature's most vicious storms; shave as you will, but the hair always comes back.

"Where does black get its strength?" I asked. "Cactus, Gibraltar, hair and black are all strong for the same reason." This was once white to which some black was added. And, as I said, black is very strong. Where does black get its strength? Cactus blooms in the searing, waterless heat of the desert; the Rock of Gibraltar has withstood centuries of Nature's most vicious storms; shave as you will, but the hair always comes back. It is a story within a story about a significant event. We cannot understand the complexity of history if we fail to see the importance of ethnicity in our nations. And, we must acknowledge the contributions of people of color to our society. If you wish to borrow the film for showing to a group, call us at 220-1200.

Questions and Answers On The Concentrated Employment Program (CEP)

1. WHAT IS THE CONCENTRATED EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM (CEP)?

The Concentrated Employment Program is a community development activity that was launched in six inner city areas in 1967. The special program has been designed to assist in situations where manpower programs no longer have an impact on hard core unemployment and educational and industrial skill training. The program is designed to be a part of the overall strategy for community development.

2. WHAT IS THE MAJOR OBJECTIVE OF THE CONCENTRATED EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM?

The major objective of the Concentrated Employment Program is to assist in the development of comprehensive employment programs within the target areas. The Program operates individually and does not seek to supplant manpower programs that are already operating in those areas. Instead, it seeks to integrate those programs into a single encompassing program of employment services. The Program seeks to combine manpower programs and special training opportunities within the target communities.

3. HOW DO THE PROGRESS OF THE PROGRAMS? WHERE ARE THEY OPERATING?

The progress of the programs is assessed through a series of reports that are prepared by the Program offices. The reports are designed to show the results of the programs and to provide information about the target areas.

4. WHAT ARE THE PROGRAM'S GOALS?

The Program's goals are to provide employment services to people who are unemployed or underemployed, to provide training opportunities for those who are not employed, and to help people to become self-sufficient.

5. HOW MUCH IS SPENT ON THE PROGRAM?

The Program is supported by a combination of federal, state, and local funds. The amount of money spent on the Program varies from area to area.

6. WHAT ARE THE PROGRAM'S EFFECTS?

The Program has had a number of effects. It has helped to increase the employment opportunities for people in the target areas, and it has helped to improve the skills of those who are employed.

7. WHY WAS THE ROLE OF BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY IN CEP?

The role of business and industry in the Program is to provide job opportunities for people who are unemployed or underemployed. The Program seeks to work with businesses and industries to identify job opportunities and to provide training opportunities for people who are interested in those jobs.

8. WHAT ROLE DO EMPLOYERS PLAY IN THE PROGRAM?

Employers play an important role in the Program. They are responsible for identifying job opportunities, providing training opportunities, and measuring the progress of the Program."

For many years I have dreamed about visiting Atlanta, Georgia, never having thought that my wish would be realized and I would have the honor of being there for the greatest moment - the Martin Luther King, Jr. Day.

We had arrived the day before Dr. King's final journey. On the way, we met Herbert Tobin who came and drove us to Morehouse College. Mrs. Tobin's home on Leathers Circle was our temporary residence. We were met by Herbert Tobin who came and drove us to Morehouse College on Saturday, April 10, when the body of Dr. King was taken to Morehouse College. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

On April 4, 1968, a great leader of his time - a fellow Negro citizen - was assassinated. His name will never be forgotten. His memory will live on in the hearts of all Americans.

We wish to remember this great man who gave his life for the cause of freedom and justice. His words of wisdom will continue to inspire us in our struggle for equality.

Outside The System

If we are to make lasting progress, we must first understand the problems of our time. Only then can we work together to find solutions that will benefit all people.

The problems we face today are complex and require a multi-faceted approach. We must be willing to listen and learn from one another.

We must work together to create a more just and equitable society. This will require effort and dedication from all of us.
