The Next Liberal President
Of The United States

by Terry Jay Diamond

The political situation of the United States is such that any candidate who is willing to work for the appointment of a Supreme Court justice who will not be pilloried for his dedication to the causes of women, minorities, and the poor, will be elected. Dr. Benjamin R. Mays, President, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Georgia.

The Negro today, as Negroes always have been, is facing an American problem. This problem is not created by Negroes, but is a continuing problem faced by all American people. Negroes simply face this problem as Americans. And it is not Negroes who can solve the problem of America, but all Americans can solve the problem of America as they face it today.

In this post-Civil Rights era, Negroes are faced with the American problem of their place in society and their role as Americans. This problem is not unique to Negroes, but is faced by all American citizens. Negroes must find a way to be both Negroes and Americans, to be black and American.

The Negro problem is not a Negro problem, but an American problem. It is a problem that must be faced and solved by all Americans. And it is a problem that can only be solved by all Americans working together.

WASHINGTON, July 29th—Representative Frank W. Conable (R-N.Y.) said today he is sponsoring a Program Information Act in Congress to authorize preparation of a comprehensive federal assistance catalog.

"This is something that is sorely needed," Congressman Conable declared. "The federal government has grown so large that it has outstripped any ability on the part of individual citizens and Congressmen to know what assistance is available to them from the federal government."

Congressman Conable pointed out that he had called last year for creation of a special Hoover Commission to study the organization of the federal government and recommend changes that would eliminate the wasteful duplication and overlapping of federal programs. He noted that the commission's catalog of programs would be of great use to the work of such a committee.

When I proposed a Hoover Commission, a few hours earlier, Congressman Conable revealed that a similar federal program being carried on by a fellow Congressman had revealed more than 1,000 different programs with a cost of more than $20,000,000, Incidence from that figure that the Administration doesn't know how many programs there are or how many billions there are, or how many federal dollars are wasted, and if the taxpaying public is going to be responsible for having the federal catalog prepared and for keeping it up to date, information would be presented in the form to be of maximum help to individual citizens and community representatives interested in the programs.

Police Teen-agers Project Helps To Curtail U Curtail Violence ROCHESTER SUMMER "TEENS ON PATROL" PROGRAM, STARTED WITH KODAK FONDS, NOW CONTINUING

Ages, Kodak came to the project. It granted an additional $20,000 to the program, bringing the total funds up to $40,000. The program, supervised by the Rochester Police Department's Community Services Unit, which was set up in cooperation with the Rochester Police Bureau, is intended to keep young people occupied during the summer months, as a way of keeping them out of trouble.

The project is being run by the "Teens on Patrol" group, made up of young people between the ages of 16 and 19, who are currently employed in various jobs around the city. The program is designed to help keep these young people out of trouble, and to give them something to do in the community.

The program was created in response to the increasing amount of juvenile delinquency in the city, and to the growing recognition of the need for ways to keep young people out of trouble.

When the program was first started, there was some concern that it might be too ambitious. Some people were worried that the program might not be able to handle the number of young people who would be participating. However, the program has been successful, and it has been expanded to include more young people.

In addition to volunteering their time, the young people in the program have also been able to gain valuable experience in working with the community. Many of them have gone on to become successful leaders in their own right.

"TOP" is a program that is making a difference in the lives of young people in Rochester. It is an example of the kind of program that can make a real difference in the community.
