Six National 4-H Photo Winners

Awarded Educational Scholarships

Six national winners were announced recently at the National 4-H Congress during the photography program, which was sponsored by the Kodak Company. These winners were selected from a group of 13 winners who were semi-finalists in the on-location competition, which was held on the grounds of City Hall in Rochester.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, an ex-4-H member, will present each of the 13 winners with a program developed by the United States Department of Agriculture which outlines the career opportunities in the field of photography.

The program will cover all phases of the industry, from photography to television and advertising.

The winners were selected from a group of 4-H members who entered the contest with their photographs. These photographs were judged by a panel of judges, who were selected from the photography profession.

The photographs selected were then printed on a special basis and distributed to all 4-H clubs in the United States.

"Take it from me. A Kodak gift gives happily ever after."

"When you give someone a Kodak Instamatic® camera, you know they'll enjoy it year after year. They just drop in the film and take good, sharp, color or black-and-white snapshots or color slides. Just like that. There's nothing for them to set or forget.

"The Kodak Instamatic 124 camera comes in a ready-to-shoot color outfit including flashcube, wrist strap, batteries, and Kodak film for color snapshots for less than $22. The camera alone is less than $19. And there are other Kodak Instamatic cameras from less than $10.

"Anybody'd be very, very happy with this automatic wonder. It has an electric eye that automatically sets the lens and a spring motor that winds the film, so they're always ready for the next shot. Plus automatic flashcube rotation and a special setting for close-ups. The complete Kodak Instamatic 414 outfit is less than $52.

"Anybody can take movies as easily as snapshots with these new, palm-size, slim, super 8 movie cameras. Just drop in a film cartridge and get sharp, bright, colorful super 8 movies.

"The Kodak Instamatic M22 movie camera is less than $30. The M30 has power zoom, reflex viewing, an extra-fast f/1.9 lens, and a CdS electric eye. It's less than $100."

Kodak gifts give happily ever after.

Flying Our Flag
A Letter to the Editor

WITH regard to the article on the flag flying day and night, I would like to clarify the section of the public law that covers this. Public Law 829 77th Congress section 2. It is the universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset except when flown at half-mast. The law does not mention the flag being displayed at night. However, the flag may be displayed at night on special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect.

The interpretation of patriotic effect seems to be the question. The office of the National Americanism Commission of The American Legion in their handbook define section 2 as, The term Special occasions means athletic events, bond campaign ceremonies, patriotic parades, etc. This is just for the specific occasion, and not for a continuous flying of the flag.

I am not a complete authority on this subject, so I have written to National Headquarters for any further information they may have on any recent changes in Public Law 829 sec. 2. I feel this is all that I can contribute to this matter at this time, or until I receive any word of any change in the law.

Sincerely Yours,
Robert T. Reynolds

Assessment Reform Urged

Thomas F. McGrath, County Board of Assessment, speaking at the annual meeting of the Rochester County Assessors Association, is likely to give a strong indication of a trend toward the adoption of uniformity in the manner of making assessments, a wider improvement of the system of assessing real and personal property, and a general improvement of all the work of the assessors.

He discussed several propositions regarding the appraisal of real estate in the county:

1. More uniformity among assessors. He stated that uniformity among assessors is needed to avoid conflict.
A Motion Picture and TV Gaycast

Dale Robertson

A Texas cowboy who braved the baddies of the old silent screen is gone, but not forgotten.

His name is Dale Robertson, and his career in movie and television history is anything but forgotten.

Robertson's life story is a tale of perseverance and hard work, a testament to the american dream.

Born in 1920, Robertson grew up in the rugged outdoor life of the south west, where he learned to ride horses and handle guns.

His first role came at the age of 15 when he appeared in a western called "The Lawman".

But it was the role of "Tugger Willow" in the classic "The Undefeated" that truly put him on the map.

Robertson went on to star in several other popular films, including "The Big Horn" and "The High Noontime".

He even found success in television, appearing in shows like "The Rifleman" and "The High Chaparral".

Robertson's career continued for many years, but it was during the 1970s that he really hit his peak, starring in films like "The Cowboys" and "The Shootist".

He passed away in 1999, but his legacy lives on, a true cowboy legend.

COMPENSATION FOR URBAN DISLOCATIONS IS ESSENTIAL

Urban dislocations are a significant problem in the United States, affecting many people, families, and businesses. It is essential for the government to provide adequate compensation for those who are displaced.

In some cases, the government and private sector may work together to provide compensation to those affected by urban dislocations. This can include financial assistance, relocation assistance, and other forms of support.

It is important to ensure that all displaced individuals receive adequate compensation for the loss of their homes, businesses, and other forms of property.

The government should also work to prevent urban dislocations from occurring in the first place, by implementing policies that support sustainable economic development and infrastructure.

Without adequate compensation, urban dislocations can have a devastating impact on individuals and communities, leaving them with nowhere to turn.

Robertson's career continued for many years, but it was during the 1970s that he really hit his peak, starring in films like "The Cowboys" and "The Shootist".

He passed away in 1999, but his legacy lives on, a true cowboy legend.

New Precanceled Stamp Program in 4 Cities

An experimental precanceled Christmas stamp, aimed at reducing costs and speeding holiday mail, was issued November 4 in four pilot cities—Atlanta, Ga.; Baltimore, Md.; Memphis, Tenn.; and New Haven, Conn.—for the testing of the program.

Mail users, particularly those who are stamp collectors, can buy the precanceled stamps by mail from the four post offices involved in the experiment. They are not available through the Phosphate Tires Unit in Washington, D.C.

A maximum of ten of the 6-cent precanceled stamps is being sold by mail to any collector. Requests should be addressed "Stamp Precanceled Christmas Stamps," to the Postmasters Atlanta, Ga.; Baltimore, Md.; Memphis, Tenn.; and New Haven, Conn. 06519. The request must include a stamped, addressed envelope, and the proper postage for the stamps. Personal checks will not be accepted in payment.

These four cities are the only areas which have the new special 6-cent Christmas stamp precanceled with the city name in green ink. Elsewhere, this special stamp, designed by artist Stevan Dohanos, depicting a "Winter Sunday in Norway, Maine" from a primitive past century painting, is not precanceled.
