EDUCATION DIALOG

There are many diverse opinions on the school crisis which must be taken into consideration. A small sample is presented here in the hope that out of our differences an agreement can be found.

A Call for Justice by David Branch

Excerpts from February 28 statement of acting School Board President Dr. DeBose:

...it will provide us with an opportunity to begin to wipe out the effects of years of discrimination in this city... We have no choice except to act. Instead, we are told to wait according to this plan you tell us that it is a radical departure from what we have done before. There is only one answer to this plan — with its provisions for a better educational program and its assurance that students and teachers have the feeling that they are part of the community — is it a radical departure from what we have done before? The Monroe County Human Relations Board finds that in fact, under the provisions of the plan for the changing of school zone boundaries the schools are going to need you. As hollow as it may sound to you today, we all have to keep trying.

There is a new day coming. We are not far from the time when a majority of the elected officials of the Board does, in fact, surrender to the democratic process. I say also that I have not lost my faith in the ability of this democratic society to guarantee justice for its members. It is up to the Board to support legislation for a free, open real estate market, to assure human rights, preserve property values, and foster a free, accurate information on the housing market; (5) and recommend any other programs that will bring top priority to the education of black people and that's the only thing new about it.

Having said all of that, I want to say also that I have not lost my faith in the ability of this democratic society to guarantee justice for its members. It is up to the Board to support legislation for a free, open real estate market, to assure human rights, preserve property values, and foster a free, accurate information on the housing market; (5) and recommend any other programs that will bring top priority to the education of black people and that's the only thing new about it.

REAL ESTATE PANEL

The Monroe County Human Relations Commission has established a Real Estate Advisory Panel to advise the Board and recommend practices that assure human rights, preserve property values, and foster a free, open real estate market...
