The Sound of Confidence

By CLIFF LEE

Those of us who have been fortunate to travel...
DISCUSS LOCAL PROBLEMS — Monroe County Legislators Nicholas R. Santoro (center), chairman of the legislative black caucus, and Ronald J. Good (right), assistant minority leader, met with officials from the Small Business Administration and the Housing and Urban Development Department. They said the opening of a new SBA office in Rochester, run by a congressional liaison with the Small Business Administration, and a new HUD regional office opened for Buffalo would greatly benefit the local businesses.

News From The Board

Of Education

The five city school superintendents met with the board this afternoon to discuss problems facing small businesses in the urban renewal area of Rochester. Santoro and Good also met with officials from the Small Business Administration and the Housing and Urban Development Department. They said that the opening next school year of a new SBA office in Rochester, run by a congressional liaison with the Small Business Administration, and a new HUD regional office opened for Buffalo would greatly benefit the local businesses.

Police Patrol

The city police will be assigned to each of the six city high schools and two area middle schools when school opens in September. Police Commissioner Warren R. Graf, 40, of 151 Chapel Hill Drive, is Health Department Head, and Physical Education Department Head Theodore Williams, 47, of 151 Chapel Hill Drive, is Assistant Superintendent of Schools. The board has approved appointment of two department heads for this school year. The University of Rochester, 301 Crittenden Boulevard, has been asked to study the possibility of establishing a high school of business administration in Rochester.

Nurses' Graduation

CHELSEA, Mass. -- A group of nurses graduated from Chelsea Memorial Hospital School of Nursing on Wednesday, September 9.

Six nurses, representing the class of 1970, were among those who graduated. They included: Helen McVeigh, Mary Ellen Johnson, Patricia McManus, Helen LeBlanc, Mary Jane O'Malley, and Mary Ann O'Sullivan.

The nurses were graduated in a ceremony held in the hospital's auditorium. They were presented with the traditional white caps and pins, symbolizing their new status as nurses.

The ceremony was attended by hospital staff, family members, and friends of the new nurses. The nurses were praised for their dedication and hard work.

The Chelsea Memorial Hospital School of Nursing is one of the oldest nursing schools in Massachusetts, and has a long tradition of producing skilled and competent nurses.
