A public statement about the plight of migrant workers.

Migrant workers have problems, and very real problems. However, in Monroe County, we have made great strides in improving conditions. Approximately five years ago, farmer employing migrants in Monroe County approached the Human Relations Commission and requested help in handling the migrant problem. Since that time a committee composed of farmers, migrant workers and social workers has been working to get existing agencies working together so there is no duplication of effort. We have made great strides in improving conditions.

Local Girl Goes Navy

“NAVY NEWS ITEM”
Miss Lucile Everett, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Herman L. Everett, of 74 Ontario St., Rochester, has become the newest member of the U.S. Navy’s Bureau Everett. The first Negro girl from the Rochester area to be accepted by the WAVES began her naval basic training at Baltimore, Md., on October 26th. Everett spent three months in training at Baltimore, Md., prior to entering the navy, enrolled in the locally sponsored Monroe County Technical High School for a time and eventually a determined effort earned her high school equivalency diploma from the Catholic High School.

Miss Everett, who was born in the city of Rochester and was graduated in the class of 1942, was graduated from the University of Buffalo in 1946 with a B.A. degree and a major in economics.

Anderson Hits Education Vote

"The people of the 37th Congressional District have been sold a bill of educational goods," said Richard Anderson, Democratic Candidate for Congress in the 37th District. "They have been sold the bill of educational goods by Conable, who has been supporting President Nixon and his education appropriation bill which will shortchange our educational needs. Anderson went on to say that any attempts to cut educational programs, without any attention to the real needs of the people of the state, are wrong. "I believe that the people of the 37th District, and the people all over the nation, believe that there is a need for our educational programs. We need to look at the educational needs of our state." Anderson felt that the people of the 37th District, and the people all over the nation, believed that there was a need for our educational programs, without any attention to the real needs of the people of the state. He added that, "If we want our children to be able to write, we should be willing to write. If we want our children to be able to read, we should be willing to read. If we want our children to be able to learn, we should be willing to learn." Anderson felt that the people of the 37th District, and the people all over the nation, believed that there was a need for our educational programs, without any attention to the real needs of the people of the state. He added that, "If we want our children to be able to write, we should be willing to write. If we want our children to be able to read, we should be willing to read. If we want our children to be able to learn, we should be willing to learn."
Rochester Savings Bank has introduced a new Passport Savings Account. Previously, a savings passbook was necessary to record account information. Now, Passport Savings Accounts eliminate the need for a passbook. Any change in the account information, such as deposits or withdrawals, will be recorded in a Passport Savings Account. This innovation has been made possible by the addition of a new Polaroid Identification System. The system consists of all typed or printed information without discovery. Any change in the date by typewriter or computer will be virtually impossible.

The Polaroid Identification System was designed to eliminate the need for a passbook. It was developed to provide instant proof of savings to individuals. Any change in the date by typewriter or computer will be virtually impossible. The system includes a Polaroid print that is permanently sealed in a plastic wallet. This wallet is attached to the passport, providing instant proof of savings. The system has been tested at the Rochester Savings Bank's Main Office, and it is expected to be available at all locations.

The system has also been tested at the Rochester Savings Bank's Main Office, and it is expected to be available at all locations. REPLACING WALLS and repairing crumbled plaster are among the tasks performed by the student trainees. Switching from task to task, the young men learn some of the skills involved in remodeling a house, inside and out. Student-trainee Louis Colon is a participant in the work-study program conceived by Eastman Kodak and administered by Rochester Jobs Inc.

"STUDENTS ARE TRAINED BY REBUILDING HOUSES." For any work-study program to be successful, the student trainees must learn skills that are immediately useful; they must also be given an opportunity to learn some of the skills involved in earning a living. This is what the Eastman Kodak pilot project in Rochester is trying to accomplish.

Kodak, according to a previous commitment of a year's duration, is cooperating with the Rochester School Boards and the Rochester Jobs Inc. on the work-study project in which the student-trainees spend half their time at a training center (a run-down store) and the other half at the work site, where they learn maintenance of equipment and machinery, proper attitudes, work habits, and the importance of regular school classes for half a day.

The students selected are those who, for a variety of reasons, have been enrolled in the regular high school program and who are not getting proper training at the high school. The program is intended to be a three-part demonstration program that has been named "Operation Young Adults." It is being sponsored by the federal government and the state of New York.

Kodak has found the training center to be ideal for training young people in the handling of industrial work skills and putting into practice their knowledge on the job. The students are paid $1.85 an hour for their half-day work training in maintenance of equipment and machinery. They are paid $3.50 for their other half-day work in the shop where they learn maintenance of equipment and machinery.

The success of the pilot program is already evident, according to Bob Coughlin, director of the Rochester Jobs Inc. Operation Young Adults program.

"The students selected are those who, for a variety of reasons, have been enrolled in the regular high school program and who are not getting proper training at the high school.
