Super-Markets Plan Price Survey

While I am preparing to inaugurate a nationwide price survey among ten thousand supermarkets in the Northeast zone, there have been reports that these ten thousand supermarkets in central stores, department stores, discount stores, and other concerns will be covered by a supermarket chain. There are reports that the survey will be directed to price levels which cause people to shop at a particular store. Thus, the ultimate competitive, with a corresponding reduction in the number of stores concerned and the number of stores receiving the information directly and shop at the stores where the lowest prices are charged. The method used in the project is designed to coordinate price levels and not store by store comparisons and

Kodak Introduces New Super Eight Systems

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Eastman Kodak Company today unveiled two new super 8 cameras specifically designed to fill a pressing need common to small business and large commercial establishments — security, either as an "as-needed" basis, or on a time-lapse basis where a film is exposed at predetermined intervals of 1 to 30 seconds.

Two new super 8 black-and-white films, Kodak MFX film and Kodak MFA film, created specifically for security purposes, as well as the signing of distributors who will offer a full-service package, were also announced.

Designed the Kodak Monitor super 8 camera and Kodak Analyt super 8 camera, the new units are priced at less than $100 and $90 respectively, thus bringing this important security measure within reach of small business concerns in grocery and liquor stores, discount stores, and other concerns vulnerable to robbery, burglary, or pilferage. Both the Monitor super 8 camera and the Analyt super 8 camera are programmable time-lapse intervals, will find widespread use not only in the retail trade but also in the research laboratories of universities, in many engineering enterprises, and in the broad traffic flow analyses.

Among the main features offered by both new cameras are the following:

- Automatic exposure
- 13 ft. Strip 5 x 7 frame
- End of film indicator
- Battery operated
- AC converter (optional)
- Scene-repetition focusing

Both the Monitor and Analyt cameras are supplied with a sound-absorbent box, mounting bracket, and an ingenious righting mirror that aids in aiming the cameras. The Monitor camera comes with a 3-foot remote control card that also can be used on the Analyt camera. A 1/8-in. converter for ac operation if the cameras are not to be battery powered is available as an option, as is a radio-control unit.

The new MFA film, available in 160-foot cartridges (1800 frames), was designed for use in both new cameras, while the new MFX film, available in 160-foot cartridges (1200 frames) was designed for use in one of the Analyt cameras.

Kodak MFX film is a particularly significant advancement since this is the first super 8 film created specifically for time-lapse photography. It can be used to film periods ranging from 1/2 hour to 30 hours (9 hours) a day—a single cartridge that will run 6-5 minutes at normal projection speeds. Further, Kodak MFX film is available in 2,000 feet or 1,000 feet with a 3-foot remote control card. A 1/8-in. converter for ac operation if the cameras are not to be battery powered is available as an option, as is a radio-control unit.

Another advantage of both new films is that they can be processed rapidly to a negative on request, or reversal processed to produce and image suitable for projection.

The total service provided by distributors of Kodak security products will include surveying the concerned store, history, book, etc, for the photographs needed; installing and maintaining the camera system as well as the appropriate film; storage of exposed film; processing the film; providing selected prints on a request basis; and providing general photographic services.

PBA Mercury Open At Henrietta Lanes

A year of statistical stories...now time to get the year underway. The PBA Mercury Open starts tomorrow at Henrietta Lanes. According to Assistant Manager Bob Wilkins, the PBA rates on the shoes for a morning session ranging from 90 cents to $1.50 and a late afternoon session of $1.50 to $2.50.

Said Wilkins, "The Mercury Open is a routine tournament. In this case, we have six different locations. The insurance company will underwrite the tournament and there will be a $1000 prize fund. The tournament runs for two weeks and starts Wednesday."

 Republicans promised to eliminate waste in welfare and delivered.

Under the Monroe County Department of Social Services, Republicans have included the "Welfare Rolls to Payrolls Program," and the "Work Experience Program." Both programs are designed to eliminate waste and inefficiency in welfare. In addition, the County Department of Social Services has drastically cut back on the welfare cases which have been housed in motels and hotels.

Republicans promised to listen to your side of the story and delivered.

Because of our efforts, Senior Citizens now have the advantage of reduced bus rates, and a 50% real estate tax abatement is given to those Monroe County residents living on an annual income up to $5,000.

Republicans promised greater police protection and delivered.

In the past two years, the Republican Administration has beefed up the City of Rochester Police Force with an additional 100 men. As a result, the Narcotics Squad is now double its previous size. Preventive Patrols are made in high crime areas, and the number of major crimes committed in the City of Rochester has decreased.

City Manager Reports

Refuse collection is a City service that touches every citizen and every property owner.

When the service is good, oftentimes is taken for granted. When its bad, City Hall telephone jangle continuously.

Recently, the Commissioner of Public Works developed a survey to try to find out what people think currently about refuse collection in this City. It provided some interesting data. Overall, we can conclude that at the time of the survey the City of Rochester was doing a good job in refuse collection.

We also can note some comments from taxpayers as guidelines for further improving the service.

If you have any ideas on service improvements, we will appreciate your comments. Meanwhile, here are the results of a random sampling of 100 City residents living in 120 scattered sections of the City of Rochester who were asked to rate our refuse collection service:

Do they ever mini-picking up your refuse?

Never 75.4 per cent
Occasionally 24.6 per cent

Do the refuse collectors spill refuse?

Never 82.5 per cent
Occasionally 17.5 per cent

Do the refuse collectors scatter or damage cars or

Never 95.7 per cent
Occasionally 4.3 per cent

Are the refuse collectors courteous or noisy?

Never 80 per cent
Occasionally 19.4 per cent

How well are you satisfied with the service?

Very satisfied 57.7 per cent
Generally satisfied 43.3 per cent
Not satisfied 3.3 per cent

We got some good suggestions in our survey. For example, one resident said streets should be swept the day after refuse pick-up; not the day before as has happened in recent months. We are working on better scheduling and coordination of these two services, which are important to maintaining a clean environment within the City.

We plan to continue this survey technique to find out how we can do our City jobs better. We want to know where we are not doing our best so we can try to improve.

Sincerely,

KERMIT E. HILL
City Manager
