Mildred Johnson Speaks

The most important news today in Black America is that of Ambassador Andrew Young resigning his post. What does that mean to the Blacks in America? Is it good or bad? Is it not a reflection regarding the racism in America? All these questions come to our mind when on one side of the see critical situation clearly. It is my opinion that Mr. Young was forced into resigning under pressure, because some or members of the powers that be were going to silence Andrew Young for his courage and for his way of being outspoken, that of a Civil Rights Fighter and that of a Southern Baptist Minister, who has always spoken out whenever he saw fit to do so.

In the position of Ambassador to the United Nations he was controlled and Andy Young will never be one who can be under the Great White Father; he be President or ditch digger.

We must praise him for doing the things he saw needed to be done and therefore launched forward to do them in his own way. More power to Andrew Young and may he continue to do the peace and justice for all people.

All during the month of August the Mr. Olivet Baptist Church is hosting guest speakers while the pastor Rev. Leardrew Johnson and wife are on vacation.

Last Sunday the Rev. Paul F. Thompson of Syracuse, N.Y. Associate Executive of the American Baptist Churches of New York State, was speaker. His very timely subject was "How Does One Cope?" He stressed the importance of self worth of one’s abiding faith in God, without the attributes, one cannot survive the hardships of this life which most of us endure in our lifetime.

Rev. Thompson is a graduate of Colgate Divinity School of the American Baptist Churches in New York and served at Mr. Olivet Church. He is a dynamic speaker and a great minister. Mt. Olivet members are proud of their speaker in the Ministry.

Rev. Browning of Dayton, Washington, D.C. was guest speaker August 19th.

Dr. Charles E. Boddie of Nashville, Tenn. was guest speaker August 26th.

Rochester has many sister cities one of which is Bamako, in the Republic of Mali Africa. Madame Dicko Massaran Konate was national director of Women's Affairs of Mali, was guest in our city.

Mildred Johnson of Ambassador Andrew Young and may he continue to do the peace and justice for all people.

Dear Mr. Coles:

My Rochester Office informed me of your recent call in which you expressed your support for S. Con. Res. 30.

This legislation, which is now pending before the Senate Rules and Administration Committee, directs the Joint Committee on the Library to produce a bust of Frederick Douglass to be placed in a suitable location in the U.S. Capitol. I appreciate knowing of your position on this resolution, and I will keep your thoughts in mind should similar legislation be considered by the House. In the meantime, I would suggest that you contact your two Senators, Mr. Javits and Mr. Moynihan. I am sure that they would be interested to know of your support for the placement of a statue of Frederick Douglass in the Capitol. With the additional thought that you might be interested, I have enclosed a copy of S. Con. Res. 30 for your review.

Once again, thank you for the call. Should you have any additional comments or questions, please don’t hesitate to let me know.

With kindest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Frank Horton

Labor Department Official Reports 'Solid Progress' in EEO Enforcement

WASHINGTON — Pointing to "solid progress" in equal employment opportunity, a high U.S. Labor Department official testified before Congress on the increased enforcement efforts of the department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP).

Assistant Secretary for Employment Standards Donald Elisburg appeared before the Employment Opportunities Subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives' Committee on Education and Labor. The subcommittee is chaired by Rep. Augustus Hawkins (D-Cal)

Participating with the assistant secretary was OFCCP Director Weldon J. Roug eau.

Elisburg told the subcommittee that under the Carter Administration, the contract compliance program has come a long way in less than three years — particularly since its reorganization in 1978.

Foremost among the accomplishments he reported is a dramatic increase in enforcement activities, as well as major changes in OFCCP's structure and operations.

"The new OFCCP is totally unlike any of its predecessors," Elisburg noted. "It is more responsive and aggressive today than at any other time in its history."

Backing up this contention, he pointed to the unprecedented number of sanctions brought against federal contractors and subcontractors over the past two years.

"More firms have been debarred from federal contract work in the last 30 months than at any other similar period of time since OFCCP began," Elisburg pointed out.

Of the 21 firms dropped from federal contract work since 1965, eight faced this penalty in the time frame Elisburg noted.

Also within the past two years, 18 firms received administrative complaints for violations of Executive Order 11246— which protect the job rights of women and minorities on federal contract work.

Another 25 complaints have been issued for employer non-compliance with laws protecting handicapped persons and veterans on the job. These represent the first enforcement efforts taken since these laws were passed in the early 1970's.

He also pointed out under the current Administration, OFCCP has obtained more than $7.6 million in backpay for over 7,100 minorities and women, and $744,000 in similar awards for handicapped persons and veterans.

EEO settlements have been made with over 2300 employers since 1977, including a major bank and coal company, and two large drug firms. In total, the settlements have involved over 7,100 minorities and $744,000 in similar awards for handicapped persons and veterans.

"We have displayed the courage to take enforcement action against contractors," said Elisburg, "regardless of size, economic power or political affiliation."

In line with strengthened enforcement, OFCCP has targeted several growing industries with the most job opportunities for more intensive EEO scrutiny. These include banking, insurance, coal and oil.

Health Hints

From BLUE CROSS & BLUE SHIELD of Rochester

Sickle Cell Anemia

Over 50,000 Americans currently have sickle cell anemia—a disease which affects the body's supply of oxygen-carrying red blood cells. Additionally, 2.5 million Americans have the sickle cell trait.

While sickle cell anemia is most common in Blacks (1 in 10 are estimated to have the trait), individuals of Spanish, Greek, Italian, Turkish and Indian descent and people whose heredity is from the Mediterranean area may sometimes have sickle cell.

Symptoms, which usually appear after six months of age, though sickle cell is present from birth, include: leg ulcers—usually found around the ankles—that won't heal; swollen and painful hands and feet; slow growth, jaundice and painful joints.

While researchers are still looking for the ultimate cure, sickle cell anemia can be determined through a simple, routine blood test. Once found, the disease can usually be controlled through medication and sometimes surgery.

Since sickle cell anemia is an inherited trait, family history can be very important. If someone in your family has sickle cell anemia or if you suspect that you, a relative or a friend might have this life-threatening disease, contact your physician, neighborhood health center or hospital and ask to be tested.

And here's another healthy hint:

You help pay the high cost of environmental protection with every RG&E bill you pay.

The price of environmental protection is high—and it's getting higher with every new environmental law and regulation put on the books. RG&E, like all power companies, has been required to make big outlays for new pollution control equipment at all of our generating plants, and for costly "environmental impact studies" that must precede all new construction. We've spent over $100 million so far—and that money has had to come out of what you, our customers, pay us.

We're committed to environmental protection. In fact, way back in the 30's we began installing precipitators in our coal-fired plants to reduce the amount of ash released into the air. But we also believe government over-regulation has increased the cost of environmental protection beyond sensible levels. tolls, for example, the $100,000 we were obliged to spend to satisfy government requirements that our choice of color for a new generating plant was a good one.

Costs like these must ultimately be paid by you, our customers. We're shedding light on some subjects that need it.

Kodak helps college students get a better start than George Eastman had.

Poverty forced George Eastman to leave school when he was 14 years old. But when he was making $60 a week, he started helping colleges by giving $50 to a struggling Mechanics Institute of Rochester (a forerunner of R.I.T.). Later, his multi-million-dollar gifts to colleges became legend. In explaining his gifts, he said it was because "the progress of the world depends almost entirely upon education..."

Kodak has been built on that progress. So we've continued this support. Last year, Kodak awarded grants totaling $3.9 million to 311 colleges and universities. (More than half that amount went to Rochester-area schools.) In addition, we invested more than $2 million in continuing education for Kodak people. Since 1955, more than 850 institutions have shared some $65 million in Kodak aid to education.

Because our progress—and "the progress of the world"—needs this type of support.

Doing more than meets the eye.

Richmond Ceremony Scheduled to Bring Maggie L. Walker House into National Park System

The residence of Maggie L. Walker, the pioneer black woman banker and civic leader, became a part of the National Park System in a special ceremony at the home, 110-A E. Leigh St., in Richmond, Va., on July 15.

Ira J. Hutchison, deputy director of the National Park Service, delivered the major address and accepted the deed to the historic landmark house from Dr. Maggie Laura Walker Lewis, granddaughter of Maggie L. Walker.

Deputy Under Secretary Wallace O. Green represented Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus and Under Secretary James A. Joseph at the ceremony.

The ceremony marks the birthdate, in 1867, of Maggie Lena Walker. She was the daughter of an ex-house slave, Elizabeth Draper, and of a northern abolitionist author, Erice Cuthbert. In 1903 she became the first American woman known to establish and head a bank. In addition to her work in banking, Mrs. Walker gained national recognition for her ceaseless efforts on behalf of blacks. A leg injury kept her confined to a wheelchair in the latter years of her life.

"The Maggie L. Walker House is an important addition to the National Park System's historic sites," Hutchison said. "It illustrates both the development of a pioneering minority enterprise and the determination of a truly outstanding American to serve her people in the face of many formidable obstacles."

"The establishment of this historic site aids in the National Park Service effort to give increased recognition to the roles of minorities in the growth and development of this nation," he said.

The Maggie L. Walker House is a large two-story brick residence of 18 rooms. It was built in 1888.

The National Park Service plans an extensive restoration of the house. When this is completed, public tours of the house, to be known as the Maggie L. Walker National Historic Site, will be available.
