Biographical Note

C. Storrs Barrows was born on January 10, 1889 in Springfield, Massachusetts. He began his career in 1912 having attended the University of Rochester and apprenticed in the office of architect Charles Hirschfelder. Barrows opened his own office in 1911 and primarily worked independently until 1921, although he is listed in the Rochester Directories as being an associate of Veredon Upham in 1918.

For a short time, Barrows partnered with Roland Westbrook, who left Rochester in the early 1920s. From about 1923 to 1945, Barrows worked with Charles Carpenter under the firm name Carpenter & Barrows. When Carpenter died in 1952, Ralph Parks joined Barrows in the firm, C. Storrs Barrows & Associates (1953-1957). In 1958, the firm became Barrows, Parks, Morin, Hall, and Brennan (1958-1966). Barrows was a licensed member of the Rochester Society of Architects and was elected to a fellowship to the American Institute of Architects. Around 1918, Barrows married Florence Valerie, who was born around 1894. Barrows is later listed in 1930 to 1935 as residing with his wife, Winifred S.

Barrows served in the army during World War I and II. He returned from Europe in 1945 and was appointed Chairman of Rochester’s Service Housing Bureau. This agency was set up by the Housing Advisory Committee in order to help World War II veterans find decent, affordable housing. Elmer B. Milliman, President of Central Trust Bank organized a non-profit corporation to create such housing and hired Barrows to design what would become Fernwood Park. In 1963, Barrows moved to Florida to open a Barrows, Parks, Morin, Hall, and Brennon branch and closed it upon his retirement in 1966. He died in Sarasota, Florida in 1971.
Scope & Content

This collection consists of the architectural drawings of C. Storrs Barrows, an architect based in Rochester, New York whose career lasted for fifty years. The materials date between his active period of 1925-1963, with the bulk being 1945-1955. The collection is comprised of an advertising brochure and architectural drawings, which include tracings, blueprints, and architectural linen.

The collection includes an advertising brochure from 1925 which contains photos of Barrows’ office with employees at work, as well as several exterior photographs of the houses he designed. With the exception of the alteration to St. Luke's Church in Rochester, all of the collection's 223 architectural drawings are of single-family homes or apartment buildings and were created between 1928 and 1963. The drawings consist of floor plans, elevations, plot plans, mechanical plans, basement pans, foundation plans, and plumbing and heating plans.

As an independent architect, Barrows designed the Whiting Buick Building and Levis Music Store. C. Storrs Barrows & Associates designed School #50 and the Penfield Elementary Schools, the firehouses on Chestnut Street, Broad Street, and Emerson Street, the Rochester Methodist Home, and Cobbs Hill Housing for the Aged. The firm Barrows, Parks, Morin, Hall, and Brennan designed Penfield High School, East Rochester High School, Craig Hill School, firehouses on Clinton Avenue North, Plymouth Avenue, the Ogden Town Hall, Saint Ann’s Home for the Aged, Seth Green Housing for the Aged, and Trinity Episcopal Church in Greece.¹

Personal & Professional Information

Barrows was born on January 10, 1889, in Springfield, Massachusetts. He studied at the University of Rochester (graduating in 1912) and was trained in the office of architect Charles Hirschfelder. Barrows opened his own office in 1911 and worked independently until 1921 (this may be a mistake, since he is listed in the Rochester Directories as an associate of Veredon Upham in 1918). For a short time thereafter, Barrows partnered with Roland Westbrook, who left Rochester in the early 1920s. From about 1923-1945, Barrows worked with Charles Carpenter under the firm name “Carpenter & Barrows.” When Carpenter died in 1952, Ralph Parks joined Barrows in the firm “C. Storrs Barrows & Associates.” In 1958, the firm became known as “Barrows, Parks, Morin, Hall, and Brennan.” Barrows was a licensed member of the Rochester Society of Architects (founded in 1919), and was elected a fellowship to the American Institute of Architects.

As an independent architect, Barrows designed the Whiting Buick Building and Levis Music Store. C. Storrs Barrows & Associates (1953-1957) designed School #50, Penfield Elementary Schools on Atlantic Avenue and Baird Road, Chestnut Street Firehouse, Broad Street Firehouse, Emerson Street Firehouse, Rochester Methodist Home, and Cobbs Hill Housing for the Aged. The firm of Barrows, Parks, Morin, Hall, and Brennan (1958-1961?) designed Penfield High School, East Rochester High School, Craig Hill School, Clinton Avenue North Firehouse, Plymouth Avenue Firehouse, Ogden Town Hall, Saint Ann’s Home for the Aged, Seth Green Housing for the Aged, and Trinity Episcopal Church in Greece. (Schmidt, 117-118) With the exception of the alteration to St. Luke’s Church in Rochester, all of the Barrows architectural drawings in the RMSC are of single family homes or apartment buildings.
Details of Lt. Colonel Barrows' Army career are scarce, but it is known that during World War II, he "supervised the housing of the headquarters staff at successive fronts." He returned from Europe in 1945, and was appointed chairman of Rochester's Service Housing Bureau. This agency was set up by the Housing Advisory Committee in order to help WWII veterans find decent, affordable places to live. The old School #18 was converted into an apartment complex. Elmer B. Milliman, president of Central Trust bank, organized a non-profit corporation (with other banks as owners) which hired Barrows to "design a moderately-priced garden-apartment project to accommodate 152 veterans and their families." Known as Fernwood Park, the apartment complex "attracted nation-wide praise even before its opening in November 1946." (McKelvey, 180-182, 204) Barrows continued working until the early 1960s, when he retired to Florida, where he died in 1971.

C. Storrs Barrows died in September 1971 in Sarasota.
Scope and Content

C. Storrs Barrows’ architecture career in Rochester lasted for fifty years. The earliest drawings in the RMSC’s collection date from 1927-1929, but the vast majority of the drawings are from the late 1940s and early 1950s. His clients were typically wealthy Rochester citizens, as evidenced by the sheer size of the houses Barrows designed, as well as by the frequent inclusions of maids’ quarters and large master bedrooms.

The collection includes an advertising brochure from 1925, A Monograph Illustrating Some Recent Work of C. Storrs Barrows, Architect which contains photos of Barrows’ office (interior and exterior) and employees at work, as well as several exterior photos of houses Barrows designed. Cynthia Howk of the Landmark Society of Western New York calls this brochure “the most important document in the collection”. It reflects Barrows’ great pride in his work, from start to finish; he shows prospective customers behind-the-scenes views of his architectural firm as well as photos of finished works.

Those interested in 20th-century Rochester architects should look at the Thomas Morin Collection at the Rochester Historical Society. Morin, a retired partner of Barrows, donated 55 tubes of architectural drawings to the RHS. While the Barrows collection at the RMSC consists primarily of private residences, the Morin Collection at the RHS consists almost exclusively of public buildings—predominantly schools and churches. These two collections may be used in conjunction to research social history, to inspire a professional or amateur architect, or simply to view a bygone era of Rochester.
